Should we save the Wetlands?

Do you care about the wetlands? I do, and I think we should save them. Public education efforts, in conjunction with states, local governments, and private citizens are helping to protect wetlands, and to increase appreciation of its uses, and value. We are losing wetlands by building on them. More than one third of the United State's threatened and endangered species live only in the wetlands, and nearly half use wetlands at some point of their lives. So that's why think we should save the wetlands.

We're losing wetlands! Certain states have lost more wetlands than others. We have been building stuff on the wetlands. If we build stuff on the wetlands, then we loose wetlands. The animals living in the wetlands become homeless if we loose the wetlands. That's why we can't loose the wetlands. Don't build stuff on the wetlands!

The wetlands help global warming. The wetlands prevent storms from happening. The wetlands make a good habitat for birds. That's why the wetlands help global warming. They also help are habitat.

Animals live in the wetlands! Animals will be homeless if we take away the wetlands. Some species of migratory birds depend on the wetlands for survival and would become extinct if the wetlands were destroyed. Certain animals that are threatened, abandoned, or abused go to the wetlands to live. That's why we need the wetlands for the animals.

All of that is why I think we should save the wetlands. We need to protect the wetlands. We need the animals to have homes. We also need to stop building stuff on the wetlands. So please support my opinion and try to save the wetlands today!

Should we save the Wetlands?

I think we should save wetlands because people live close to the wetland.

My first reason is that they have some populations of fish who inhabit wetlands that people eat. An example is that people don't just have to eat chicken, turkey, deer or other land animals they have to eat fish too. The population of fish had depended on people for a long time. Wetlands that have been destroyed had rivers with fish in them and the fish are vanishing.

My second reason is that people live close to wetlands. The trouble is that 22 states have lost at least 50% of their original wetlands to manmade development. Some other states have lost more than 80% of their wetlands. More than half the wetlands of America's original wetlands have been destroyed.

My third is that birds depend on the wetlands. These birds are threatened and endangered birds of different species. Human's changing natural wetlands seriously affects the health of bird's populations. The birds depend on the wetlands so they could also live there. Some communities go to the wetlands and they cut down the trees. Then after they leave, they have caused a lot of trouble damage to the environment the birds liven. Another thing is that the trees make shade for the water so it does not evaporate from the land. They also get cut down to use as paper.

We should save wetlands.

Do You Like Three Six Mafia?!

DO YOU LIKE THREE SIX MAFIA??!! I'll be nice enough to give you some info about their last CD, Last 2 Walk. It's meant for teens but if adults like that kind of music, then its okay. Like once I and my mom drove to We-natchee and I put on some rap music and she liked it. The song is awesome, trust me you will like it. You can buy this at Hastings.

The song I liked the most out of the whole CD, is Lolli Lolli (Pop That Body). The reason why I like that song is because it is a cool rap song. I bet if you heard this song you will like it. The first time I heard this song I liked it, so that's how I know you will like the CD.

The CD is a hit for the year 2008 because of its great lyrics and artist. So you should drop what you are doing and go get this great CD, please. But be careful and look for the unrated CD because there is a rated CD.

Hey Do You Want To Know Something?!!

HEY, DO YOU WANT TO KNOW SOMETHING??!! We should be saving the wetlands all over the world! There are wetlands all over the world, I mean everywhere! Birds rely on wetlands all over the world! This is why we need wetlands because they produce global warming.

There are wetlands all over the world! There are wetlands in the US. There even wetlands in Mexico, now that's amazing! More than half of America's original wetlands have been destroyed because people don't care about wetlands. Now that's very sad.

Birds rely on the wetlands so we need to care about the wetlands. Animals have homes there, imagine if we lived in the wetlands and nobody cared about our homes, How would you feel about that. That's a bird's habitat. It's also a turtle's home and environment.

We need wetlands because they help us in a lot of ways like global warming.

Global warming is the earth getting hot. They soak up the carbon dioxide in the atmosphere. The wetlands help keep the coast safe from storms. Wetlands help global warming and that's very helpful.

We should be saving the wetlands! They have a good habitat for birds and don't you like birds because I do. So that's why we should be saving the wetlands in America and all over the world. So please encourage other people to save the wetlands because they could be helping us in a lot of ways! By Alex Novela

Wetlands

How you would feel if someone tore down your home and took it away just because they wanted to build something else there? This is what is happening to the animals of the wetlands. People come and tear down their homes everyday because they want to build something else.

The animals are by far the most important thing in the wetlands. For example, some of the animals are frogs, turtles, snakes, alligators, salamanders, box turtle, American toad, little brown bat, and the beaver. These animals are in danger because their homes are being destroyed. We should save them not only because their homes are being destroyed, but because if the wetlands are gone, there will be no more water for the animals to live in or to

My second reason to save the wetlands is because of all the plants. First of all because the plants will lose their water, the natural soil and fresh spring water. Think about it, plants give us pollen, so that bees can make honey, so that we can have honey to put on things like toast, donuts, and so on. Hey and some plants give us nutrients that we put in food and some of our foods are just plain plants.

If you think about it, wetlands give us more than you think. They provide us with natural fresh water and fresh soil to use in our gardens. More than 22 states have lost more than 50% of their original wetlands; more than 2 states have lost more than 99% due to global warming.

These are only a few reasons why I think we should save the wetlands. If you think we should save the wetlands like me: then log online to www.savingthewetlands.org and get involved with your environment and help us keep the wetlands for the animals.
